How to Finance Your
University of Toronto Experience:
A Guide for First-Entry Programs

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

My own dreams of practicing medicine were realized when I made the decision to study at the University of Toronto.

—Everton A. Gooden, BSc 1991, MD 1996, PGMT 2001, FRCSC, and past recipient of the Dr. Anderson Abbott Award.

Welcome!

As a University of Toronto alumnus, I extend to you a warm welcome.

I know this is an exciting time in your life, filled with hopes, dreams and aspirations, as you begin exploring your post-secondary options. My own dreams of practicing medicine were realized when I made the decision to study at the University of Toronto. Without the financial support I received from the university, my dreams would not have been realized.

As a past beneficiary of student financial services, I strongly encourage you to take advantage of the resources offered in an effort to help with the financial challenges of a university education.

Studying at the University of Toronto will provide you with the opportunity to learn with the best and brightest minds from around the world. When you complete your studies, you will join an elite group of international alumni and scholars on the world stage.

The University of Toronto has a long tradition of excellence and you too can turn your dreams into reality.

We are here to help. Your future at the University of Toronto is within reach.

Your Future at the University of Toronto is Within Reach

As Canada's largest university, we welcome over 14,000 new students every September from across the country and around the world. It is our hope that you will soon be among them.

We know that financing a university education is no small undertaking. It may involve a mix of financial resources—from student awards to government grants to part-time employment.

It will also involve, most importantly, you.

In addition to the financial aid programs we've outlined here, prospective students and their families may wish to consider resources beyond those offered by the government and institution. These may include RESPs; external awards and scholarships offered by community organizations or companies; financial assistance and loans offered through banks and credit unions; part-time employment income; and contributions from family members.

At U of T, our goal is to help students bring their dream of a university education within reach.

We wish to acknowledge this land on which the University of Toronto operates. For thousands of years it has been the traditional land of the Huron-Wendat, the Seneca, and most recently, the Mississaugas of the Credit River.

Today, this meeting place is still the home to many Indigenous people from across Turtle Island and we are grateful to have the opportunity to work on this land.

Resources. Assistance. Advice.

Student Spotlight

A member of the Mohawk Nation, Turtle Clan, and an alumna of Woodsworth College's Millie Rotman Shime Academic Bridging Program, Andrea is pursuing an Honours B.A. at the Faculty of Arts & Science, specializing in Indigenous Studies and double-minoring in Book & Media Studies and Creative Expression & Society. Andrea received the 2019 President's Award for Outstanding Indigenous Student and was a Bennett Scholar in 2018 and 2019.

Tell me a bit about yourself.

I grew up in Reno, Nevada, but my family moved to Canada when I was in fifth grade. My family are from Six Nations of the Grand River. I am a 4th year undergraduate student specializing in Indigenous Studies and double-minoring in Book and Media Studies and Creative Expression and Society, and I am part of Woodsworth College. I hope to work within the urban Indigenous community and continue on to my MA or PhD after finishing my undergrad! I am also the founder of Indigenous Languages Club, a UTSU-recognized club that seeks to promote the use of Indigenous Languages and arts programming on-campus.

How did you find the process of applying for student awards and assistance?

The streamlined awards process is much easier now than when I first started! Before, you had to drop off applications in-person and at multiple locations. Now it is one application.

What additional (outside of U of T) resources did you research? e.g. community or corporate scholarships or bursaries?

Miziwe Biik, Indigenous scholarships offered through the Government of Canada and other bursaries from corporations.

How did you find out about the financial resources available to you at U of T?

Woodsworth College has been extremely helpful during my time here at U of T. They helped support my international experience while studying in New Zealand in the summer of 2018. First Nations House has also been instrumental in providing financial assistance, cultural programming and generally just a spot to feel at home!

How has receiving awards and scholarships helped you fulfill your goals?

Having access to financial help has been extremely beneficial to allow me to focus on my studies and not worry about working so many hours. This has allowed me to fulfill my potential as a student and make Dean's List two years in a row!

What advice do you have for prospective students?

Check first through your college, as well as the awards centre at U of T. There are so many scholarships and opportunities for financial assistance, you just have to look for it! The Government of Canada also has a website with all available scholarships and bursaries for Indigenous students and other available financial assistance.

Awards Scholarships & Grants

Awards are non-repayable monetary awards issued based on criteria such as merit, financial need, community engagement, leadership and athletic performance.

At U of T, there are a few different types of awards that may be of interest to incoming undergraduate students:

ADMISSION AWARDS

Admission awards are for newly admitted students entering the University of Toronto in year one of their undergraduate studies. Students are automatically considered for a variety of admission awards when they apply to the University. There are also admission awards that require students to complete a separate application or awards profile.

IN-COURSE AND GRADUATING AWARDS

In-course awards are open to current U of T students; graduating awards are awarded to graduating students who are in the final year of their degree. These awards are issued based on academic merit and/or financial need.

GRANTS

Grants are non-repayable monetary awards based primarily on financial need. Sometimes "grant" and "bursary" are used interchangeably, but "grant" is the more common term used at U of T.

5,000+

admission scholarships

almost

$23M

5,800

in-course awards each year

DID YOU KNOW?

- U of T, through its colleges and divisions, awards more than 5,000 admission scholarships, totalling nearly $23 million, and about 5,800 in-course awards each year.
- The majority of our admission scholarships are awarded automatically. A separate application is not required for these merit-based admission awards.
- You can apply for as many awards as you like, and most awards can be combined with each other.
- Each faculty and college at U of T offers non-repayable merit- and need-based awards. To learn more about Divisional Aid, get in touch with the specific college or faculty directly.

DON'T MISS OUT ON THESE OPPORTUNITIES...

Ask your parents, or organizations in your community, about scholarships for graduating secondary school students. Some organizations and companies offer scholarships to children of members or employees.

EMERGENCY GRANTS

For unexpected financial needs, the University of Toronto has grants available for emergency situations. Our Emergency Undergraduate Grant assists current U of T undergrads, both domestic and international, who need immediate, short-term financial relief due to unexpected expenses.

// The National Scholarship has been the ultimate opportunity as it has opened countless doors for me from both an academic and career perspective.

Jamar is currently pursuing a B.Com. at the Faculty of Arts & Science (Rotman Commerce), specializing in Finance & Economics. Jamar is in our National Scholarship Program's 2018 cohort.

What led you to apply for the National Scholarship?

I did not have the financial resources to move away from home (Vancouver) to Toronto and fund my education and living expenses. During my senior year, I realized my extra-curricular involvements and academic success well-positioned me to apply for scholarships; I applied for the National Scholarship as a long-shot opportunity, and it just so happened to be a great fit.

How has receiving the National Scholarship impacted your post-secondary journey?

Being relieved of the stress and hardships associated with struggling to make bill payments, I have been able to dedicate 100% of my energy to my degree, multiple student groups, and multiple athletic teams.

How did it feel to receive the largest entrance scholarship at Canada's flagship university?

Put simply: the most life-changing and joyous feeling someone can experience. This award sent a ripple effect of hope and happiness through my entire family, and that is why the National Scholarship is so special. Knowing the impact that this award had on me and my family, I approach every day at U of T as a chance to make a lasting difference within my field of study.

How are you involved on campus? Are you participating in any clubs, committees, athletics etc?

U of T is the best place to be if you are looking to get involved with your campus. If I had the time, I would be involved in twice as many groups as I am, but here are the titles I hold: Director of Finance at the Black Students Association, Analyst at Toronto Student Investment Council, Corporate Relations & Finance Lead at Black Rotman Commerce, Player for St. George Red's Tri-Campus Soccer Team, and of course active within all of the National Scholarship related involvements.

Awards Profile

MAXIMIZE YOUR ELIGIBILITY FOR A WIDE RANGE OF AWARDS.

The Awards Profile makes it possible for U of T applicants to be considered for admission awards based on financial need, academic merit, leadership, and other criteria.

- To create an Awards Profile, you first need access to the JOIN U of T applicant portal. After applying through OUAC, you'll receive an email with instructions on how to activate your JOINid and log into the applicant portal. Once inside, you'll be able to fill out your Awards Profile.
- Some faculties and colleges also have their own Awards Profiles, so be sure to check your faculty and/or college website and complete any separate awards profile that they may require.

The University of Toronto is committed to enhancing access and equity across all of our campuses.

We strive to recruit students who reflect Canada's diversity and can strengthen our community with a breadth of viewpoints and lived experiences. To this end, we strongly encourage applicants to comprehensively self-identify when completing their Awards Profiles.

The Awards Profile is each student's best opportunity to make themselves eligible for a wide range of awards with a single application, including awards for Black students, Indigenous students, Convention refugees, service members, the economically disadvantaged, and more. Self-identification is voluntary and kept confidential.

Student Spotlight

Emma is currently pursuing an Honours B.Sc. at the University of Toronto Scarborough, majoring in Biochemistry and Neuroscience. Emma received a President's Scholarship of Excellence in 2016, and a U of T Scarborough Admission Scholarship in 2016.

Tell me a bit about yourself.

My name is Emma Cheng and I'm from the small farm town of Lindsay, Ontario. I am currently in my fourth year at University of Toronto – Scarborough (UTSC), majoring in biochemistry and neuroscience. My goal is to complete my master's degree and work at a university, helping students with both their academic and career goals.

How did you find out about the financial resources available to you at U of T?

I had great guidance counsellors in high school, and I also had the help of the UTSC viewbook and website. UTSC provides excellent literature and online resources that are easy to navigate for information. At the time, I knew about the automatic entrance scholarships, but I did not know about the President's Scholarship! It was a very nice surprise to receive a letter in the mail informing me that I had received a scholarship I didn't even know I was eligible for!

What additional (outside of U of T) resources did you research? e.g. community or corporate scholarships or bursaries?

Through my research, I applied to the Loran Scholars Foundation as an independent without a school sponsorship.

How did you find the process of applying for student awards and assistance?

The process was very simple, especially for the entrance scholarships where you are automatically considered. For other awards that require application, the Awards Profile was very easy to use.

How has receiving awards and scholarships helped you fulfill your goals?

Not having to worry about paying for tuition means a lot. I was able to pay off all of my tuition and my residence fees for first year, and the money I received every year from scholarships gave me more flexibility when looking for off-campus housing. I was able to focus my attention on school and extracurriculars/jobs, and this was all thanks to my scholarship.

What advice do you have for prospective students?

Apply to as many scholarships as you are eligible for—you never know when you might get awarded!

“Applying for awards was simpler than I thought, as there are some scholarships that require no application. Using the Awards Profile was easy too.”

Government Aid

The Ontario Student Assistance Program (OSAP) is a government-funded student aid program. Funding consists of a mix of grants and loans.

OSAP assumes that a student's parent(s) or guardian(s), or spouse if applicable, will financially contribute to the student's educational expenses. The income of your parent, guardian, or spouse will be taken into consideration when you apply for OSAP.

Once you apply and qualify for OSAP, you'll be considered automatically for other sources of funding, like non-repayable grants through the University of Toronto Advanced Planning for Students program (UTAPS).

If you're from another Canadian province or territory, or a First Nations band, you can apply for student aid through your province's financial aid program or through your First Nations band.

WHO CAN APPLY FOR OSAP?

Canadian Citizens, Permanent Residents, or Protected Persons who are Ontario residents may apply for OSAP.

HOW MUCH MIGHT YOU RECEIVE FROM OSAP?

Get a quick estimate of how much you might get from OSAP. Visit Ontario.ca/OSAP.

DID YOU KNOW?

U of T accepts Band Funding.

Contact your Band's Education Office/Coordinator to inquire about funding to support post-secondary education.

There are additional government grants that may apply to you:

Ontario Bursary for Students with Disabilities (BSWD)

Ontario First Generation Bursary

This is for students who are the first in their family to pursue a post-secondary education.

Indigenous Student Bursary

This is for Indigenous students who are residents of Ontario, and demonstrate financial need.

Indigenous Services Canada (ISC)

The federal government has funding programs for Status First Nations students enrolled in eligible postsecondary programs.

Divisional Aid

Each faculty and college at U of T offers non-repayable merit and need-based awards.

These awards are based on your academic division's, college's or faculty's assessment of your individual circumstances.

To learn more about Divisional Aid, get in touch directly with the specific college or faculty to which you've been admitted.

More than

$55M

in support available across U of T's academic divisions.

UTAPS

University of Toronto Advanced Planning for Students

UTAPS is there when government funds are not enough.

UTAPS fills the financial gap for full-time students who already receive the maximum amount of government aid available, but whose funding doesn't cover all of their educational costs (e.g., tuition, books, living expenses).

DO YOU QUALIFY?

To be eligible for UTAPS funding, you must:

- Be a Canadian citizen, permanent resident, or a protected person (recognized convention refugee); and
- Be registered in a full-time course load (per OSAP requirements) during the Fall and/or Winter semesters; and
- Be receiving government student aid (OSAP/other provincial or territorial aid) or First Nations band funding, and be assessed as still having unmet need.

Note:

OSAP recipients are automatically considered for UTAPS – no application is required.

Students receiving aid from other provincial or territorial sources must apply by completing the online fillable and submittable UTAPS estimator.

UNIQUE TO US.

The University of Toronto is the only Ontario post-secondary institution to provide non-repayable grants over and above what is required by government. Through UTAPS, U of T not only helps students with tuition and book costs not covered by government student aid, but with living costs too.

PROVINCIAL AND TERRITORIAL GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE OUTSIDE OF ONTARIO

Not living in Ontario? Students who are Canadian citizens, permanent residents, or protected persons may qualify for financial assistance from their province or territory.

DID YOU KNOW?

Most recently, over $44 million in UTAPS grants were distributed to more than 9,200 students.

How Claire made it work

Claire is in the first year of the International Management Business program at the University of Toronto Scarborough. She is a single student who is living at home during her studies. As OSAP did not fully meet Claire's needs, the University of Toronto provided her with a $1,364 UTAPS grant.

Claire's parents' combined income is $68,900. She is one of three children in the family, two of whom are enrolled in post-secondary studies. While Claire was in school, interest that accrued on her loan was paid by the government.

“Financial aid such as UTAPS helped to ensure that I could excel in my studies, without worrying too much about paying for my education.

Bhajan is currently pursuing an Honours B.Sc. at the University of Toronto Mississauga. She won the 2017 and 2018 Nancy Salmon Scholarship at the Community Foundation of Mississauga and received U of T Mississauga Grants in 2017 and 2019, as well as UTAPS funding in 2019.

Tell me a bit about yourself.

My name is Bhajan Gill and I am a 5th year Honours Bachelor of Science Student at the University of Toronto Mississauga campus. I hope to one day work in the field of Public Health, with a focus on equity and mental health work.

How did you find out about the financial resources available to you at U of T?

I first found out about financial aid through an advisor at UTM. I discovered that I was eligible for UTAPS. Coming from a family where my two other siblings were in post-secondary studies as well, and whom were also financially supported by my parents, I wanted to research the potential financial resources available to me, to help pay for my undergraduate education.

What advice do you have for prospective students?

Explore the opportunities and resources available to you. There are a multitude of financial aid options and scholarships provided by the university, and they are intended to help support students. The university provides these aids to make sure students are able to excel in their studies.

How did you find the process of applying for student awards and assistance?

I personally found the process of applying for awards/financial assistance through U of T very easy, as all the information is available on one platform.

What impact has the assistance you received had on your goal of attending university?

Receiving financial aid through U of T has been extremely beneficial towards my academic career as an undergraduate student. The additional financial support has allowed me to both focus on my studies, as well as explore the various student opportunities available to me. I have been able to enjoy everything that the university has to offer, without having to worry too much about paying for my education.

Tuition Deferrals

Tuition deferrals are a special arrangement between you and the University if you cannot make the minimum tuition payment by the registration deadline for the upcoming session.

This may be, for example, because you are awaiting confirmation on an external loan for which you have applied.

Students who qualify for a fee deferral do so with the understanding that this arrangement temporarily delays their need to make their tuition payment until their student aid funding arrives.

HOW TO REQUEST A TUITION DEFERRAL

- Log in to ACORN (acorn.utoronto.ca).
- Select "Tuition Fee Deferral" under the Finances menu, and accept the terms and conditions.
- If your request was approved, your registration status will say "Registered" for the upcoming semester.

You will know immediately if your fee deferral request was successful or not. If your first attempt is unsuccessful, try again within 1-2 business days. If you continue to experience problems, contact your Registrar's Office immediately. When you receive your student aid funding, make your tuition payments accordingly.

REMINDER

Emergency Grants are available to both domestic and international students.
